what happens when more help is needed?

Your peace of mind is a top priority for our community. That's why, should your health needs change, we provide access to a full continuum of care.

No matter what life has to offer in the coming years, as a Life Plan Community resident, you can take comfort in knowing that your health needs will be addressed with compassion, empathy and dignity from an experienced team you know and trust. Knowing there is a plan in place, that your loved ones will not be burdened with difficult decisions about your health and that you are protected against changes in the marketplace is what makes access to the care continuum so valuable.

Should you require one or more of the following care services during your time as a resident, the caring and knowledgeable staff at our community will be able to develop a plan specifically tailored to your individual needs. For couples, this comfort is invaluable, as it means that you and your loved one can each receive the specialized care you need while remaining close or even under one roof.

assisted living

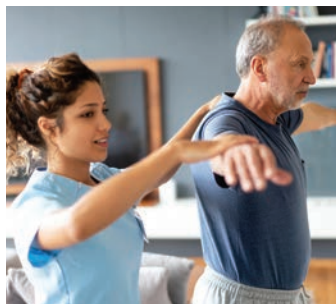

Sometimes, life requires a little more support. Assisted Living is designed to provide exactly that, be it physical or personal care, assistance with medications and more. Assisted Living residents are able to enjoy all the same luxuries and amenities as those living independently. Life is made that much more comfortable, however, when those additional services and essential care are readily available during this time of change.

memory care

Residents in need of Memory Care will be provided a supportive and homelike atmosphere where they can explore interests old and new and partake in activities that stimulate the mind. An experienced team is available around the clock to provide peace of mind to both residents and their loved ones. Staff members are equipped to consider personal preferences in every aspect of care, ensuring a high quality of life with the dignity that all deserve.

skilled nursing & rehabilitation care

For those in need of Skilled Nursing & Rehabilitation Care, multiple services are available, from short-term rehabilitative services to get you back on your feet, to acute long-term care for those who need specialized, daily attention. The aim of more specialized long-term care is to help you function at your highest level while offering the kind of assistance, activities and programming that keep every day enjoyable.
